

DEMANDS OF POLICE TO BE SENT TO JAIL

Man of Good Family Creates Sensation at Headquarters.

"YOU'D BETTER LOCK ME UP"

No Charge Against Him, But He Threatened to Make Trouble and Was Accommodated—Story of "Walter Barnes" Downfall Through Drink.

A well-dressed young man walked slowly into the Fifth precinct police station about 2 o'clock this morning, and, lounging over the rail, began to beat impatiently upon the desk to attract the attention of Desk Sergeant Van Sant, who was busily occupied in taking the early morning calls.

"Well, what can I do for you?" asked Van Sant, who turned around at the noise and eyed the stranger intently.

"Sir, I want you to lock me up for a vag. I have no home, nowhere to go, and I want to be locked up," said the man in a moderate tone of voice.

"Why, my dear sir, you surely don't expect us to put you in a cell for doing nothing?" asked the police official. "We can't arrest a man until he commits a crime or we know something about him."

"Well, you had better lock me up; if you don't there'll be trouble for you," quietly remarked the stranger. "I've just been released from a jail term of six months."

At this juncture Bicycle Policeman Evans came on the scene and recognized the man. After considerable discussion, the bluecoats endeavoring to persuade the unfortunate man to take a brace on himself, it was finally decided to place him under arrest.

The stranger gave the name of Walter Barnes, twenty-nine years of age, and was marched back to the cell room singing religious songs.

The man, it is said, was at one time one of the best known printers in the Government Printing Office, liked by all, but drink had been the cause of his downfall.

Of a Well-Known Family.

Only a short time ago he was sent to the jail because of threats he made against his stepfather. Although he would not talk regarding his history, it is said he is from a well-known Washington family.

The arrest was of such a unique character and so unusual that it was the talk of the policemen in the station all day. Owing to the quiet manner of the prisoner a strict watch was kept on him during the night to prevent a possible attempt at suicide.

He was arraigned in court this morning and given a short term in the workhouse.

HOLIDAY PLANS OF ORGANIZED LABOR

Central Labor Union Excursion to River View.

KNIGHTS AT MARSHALL HALL

Interesting Programs Arranged Including Baseball Games at Both Resorts. Day to be Generally Observed—All Departments to Close.

Everybody who works for his daily bread in the sweat of his brow and is dependent on the daily wage for sustenance will, with a very few exceptions, observe Labor Day, which, according to law, falls on next Monday, the first Monday of September.

The Washington labor world, as well as Government departmental forces, are looking to the day with expectations of recreation and jollification. Athletic and other amusements have been arranged for those who will be the guests of either the Knights of Labor on their excursion to Marshall Hall or the Central Labor Union at River View.

The Government departments, the District employees of all grades, the banks and stock exchange, and business men generally will close up for the day.

The Knights' Excursion.

Final arrangements were made last night by the Knights of Labor excursion committee for their outing to Marshall Hall. The executive committee is: J. K. Potter, chairman; James P. Cochran, secretary; John T. Doyle, treasurer; J. Frank O'Meara, Harry A. Martin.

Committee on sports—J. Frank O'Meara, chairman; J. L. Reynolds, W. W. Adams, William F. Moran, Samuel Johnson, J. E. Collins, Charles Winkelman, H. B. Martin.

Committee on boats and comfort—James P. Cochran, chairman; W. L. Duwart, Thomas Sheehan, L. P. Wild, E. J. Dakin, Thomas P. O'Dea, H. Schulze.

The Central Labor Union will give an excursion to River View, and the committee on entertainment has arranged an interesting program.

The ball game of the day will be between the Government Printing Office and the Navy Yard. An excellent article.
